

Vendor Relationship Management

A successful enterprise usually has win-win long-term relationships with its suppliers and vendors. But, for non-consumer products and services, buyer's dependency on vendors increases when the products and services that it depends upon are non-standard and specialized. For example, the trading and settlement systems of an exchange are specialized and their uptime can be heavily affected by whether the exchange has the know-how of managing its vendors that it heavily depends upon.

Therefore, managing vendor relationships become crucial and 8Manage SPM provides tools for the enterprise to better manage vendor relationships.

1. Tracking all key interactions & promises

In order to maintain good long-term relationship with its vendors, the enterprise must maintain corporate memory (not individual memory) of its key interactions and promises with its vendors. 8Manage provides facility to record the enterprise' s interactions and promises with each vendor and view them in chronological order.

The easy and clear tracking of what have been discussed and promised helps reinforce that people of the same corporate to have corporate memory and speak with the same tongue.
